"FIRE MARSHAL ACT."

May 13th, 1931.

PURSUANT to the provisions of the above Act, being chapter 91 of the "Revised Statutes of British Columbia, 1924," His Honour the Administrator in Council has been pleased to approve of the following regulations:—

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE MANUFACTURE, SALE, STORAGE, CARRIAGE, AND DISPOSAL OF INFLAMMABLE LIQUIDS AND OILS.

(Pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act.")

1. In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires:—

"Boat-filling station" means a service-station operated for the purpose of furnishing inflammable liquids to motor-boats:

"Crank-case oil" means any waste oil which has been used in the engine or crank-case of any motor-vehicle:

"Inflammable liquids" means any liquid with a flash-point below 100 degrees Fahr., as determined by the Elliott, Abel, Abel-Pensky, or the Tag closed-cup testers (the Tag closed-cup tester to be conclusive in case of dispute), all tests being made in accordance with the methods adopted by some recognized society for testing materials, subject to the approval of the Fire Marshal; and, without limiting the generality of the above "inflammable liquids" includes gasoline, naphtha, and benzol:

"Motor-boat" means any boat or launch in which inflammable liquids furnish the motive power:

"Motor-vehicle" means any vehicle in which inflammable liquids furnish the motive power, and includes aeroplanes:

"Officer" means the Fire Marshal, the Local Assistant to the Fire Marshal for the municipality or district in which he has jurisdiction, or any officer appointed by a Municipal Council or Board of Commissioners to enforce the provisions of these regulations:

"Operator" means any person owning or operating a service-station, and includes any person who operates a pump or measuring-device for the purpose of furnishing inflammable liquids to a motor-vehicle or motor-boat:

"Refining or wholesale storage plant" means any place where inflammable liquids are refined, blended, or stored in wholesale quantities:

"Service-station" means any place where inflammable liquids are retailed to the public in quantities in excess of one gallon:

"Tank-wagon" means any vehicle used for the purpose of carrying gasoline in bulk, and which has a capacity in excess of fifty gallons:

"Visible-container pump" means any pump or measuring-device in which inflammable liquids are measured or displayed in a glass container.

2. No person shall install or operate a refining or wholesale storage plant for the purpose of refining, blending, or storing inflammable liquids without first obtaining a permit from the Fire Marshal. Application for the permit shall be made in writing and shall be accompanied by plans drawn to scale showing the location of the storage-tanks with relation to the line of the adjoining property, the layout of all pipe-lines and valves used in connection therewith, the size and capacity of tanks, the weight and gauge of metal used in their construction, and the location and type of vents and safety-valves. Construction of the plant shall not be commenced until such plans have been approved in writing by the Fire Marshal.

3. No person shall operate a service-station or a boat-filling station or install any pump or measuring-device to be used for the purpose of retailing inflammable liquids without first obtaining a permit:—

(a.) In a municipality, from a Local Assistant to the Fire Marshal or from an officer duly appointed to enforce the provisions of these regulations by the Municipal Council or Board of Commissioners:

(b.) In unorganized territory, from the Local Assistant to the Fire Marshal for the fire district in which the service-station or boat-filling station is located:

Provided that in any case where there is no such officer, or in the absence of such officer, application may be made to the Fire Marshal, who may issue a permit if he deems it advisable; and that no permit shall be issued in any municipality unless the approval of the Municipal Council or Board of Commissioners has first been obtained.

4. Application for a permit shall be made in writing and shall state the location of the service-station or boat-filling station, the capacity of the storage-tanks, the type and trade-name of the pump or measuring-device to be installed, and any further information required by the officer.

5. No pump or measuring-device used for the purpose of retailing inflammable liquids shall hereafter be erected or installed on any public street or highway. Every pump or measuring-device used in connection with a service-station hereafter constructed or equipped shall be so located that it will not be necessary for a motor-vehicle to stand on the public street or highway while being serviced thereat.

6. Every pump used for the purpose of retailing inflammable liquids shall be mounted on a concrete or heavy wooden base which shall rise eight inches above the surrounding grade and extend not less than eight inches beyond the base of the pump in all directions. When two or more pumps are mounted on the same base they shall be spaced not less than four feet apart between the nearest points.

7. All pumps which discharge inflammable liquids under pressure or by gravity-flow shall be equipped with an automatic shut-off control so adjusted that when the operator's hand is removed the flow of liquid will be immediately cut off.

8. All visible-container pumps shall be so equipped that through the operation of a quick-opening valve they may be drained to the storage-tank in thirty-five seconds or less, and no visible-container pump shall be maintained or operated inside of any building.

9. No inflammable liquids shall be kept in the visible container of any pump during the hours in which the service-station is closed to business.

10. No operator shall permit the handling of inflammable liquids in any room or service-station where there is any open light or fire.

11. No operator shall permit any inflammable liquids or any crank-case oil to flow into a public sewer or into a septic tank or cesspool. All waste inflammable liquids or crank-case oil on the premises of a service-station shall be kept in steel drums provided with screw-plugs, which drums shall at all times be kept closed, except when being filled. Not more than two drums of a capacity of fifty imperial gallons each shall be kept on the premises of a service-station at any time.

12. All storage-tanks for service-stations shall be located outside the building and be buried not less than three feet underground at the highest point; but the Fire Marshal may, if he deems it advisable, permit such variation from this requirement as will meet local conditions. Where two storage-tanks with a capacity in excess of two hundred and fifty gallons each are used, they shall be separated by not less than three feet of earth or by an eight-inch wall constructed of concrete or some equally fire-resistant material and extending at least one foot beyond the ends of the tanks and one foot above the tops of the tanks.

13. Storage-tanks shall be constructed of galvanized steel, open-hearth steel, or wrought iron, having a thickness of not less than No. 14 B.G. Birmingham standard gauge for capacities up to three hundred imperial gallons, and not less than No. 12 gauge for capacities up to six hundred imperial gallons. In addition to the galvanizing, the outside of each tank shall be given a heavy coat of durable asphaltic paint or suitable rust-resisting material. Every storage-tank which is placed underground shall be set on a firm foundation and be surrounded by a layer of sand at least eighteen inches thick and well tamped into place. Underground storage-tanks shall not be joined together by any connecting pipe, and each tank shall have a separate fill-pipe. No storage-tank shall be installed under any driveway or other place where the surface is subject to heavy loads, unless it is bridged over or protected to the satisfaction of an officer; and no underground storage-tank shall be covered until it and all its pipe connections have been inspected by an officer.

14. All joints of storage-tanks shall be riveted, caulked, brazed, welded, or made tight by some equally satisfactory process. Tanks shall be tight and sufficiently strong to bear without injury the most severe strains to which they may be subjected in use.

15. Shells of storage-tanks shall be reinforced where connections are made and all connections shall be made through the top of the tank above the liquid-level. The fill-pipes shall be provided with a hinge-cover which may be securely locked with a padlock when not in use.

16. All storage-tanks shall be provided with a galvanized-iron or copper vent-pipe with a diameter of not less than one inch, to be carried above the level of any adjacent windows or openings of any building and to be provided at the top with a return bend and wire screen with a mesh of not more than forty wires to the inch or less than thirty.

17. The fill-pipes for storage-tanks hereafter constructed or installed shall be so located that it will not be necessary for a tank-wagon, while discharging inflammable liquids thereinto, to stand on the public street or highway.

18. Where inflammable liquids are supplied to service-stations in drums the liquid shall be transferred from the drum to the storage-tank by a hand-pump. Such pump shall be secured firmly to the drum and be equipped with an approved locking-device and be kept locked in the absence of the operator.

19. All drums used for inflammable liquids, when emptied, shall be removed from the premises of the service-station and stored in a safe place approved by an officer. All openings in drums shall be securely closed before storing.

20. No operator or attendant in charge of a tank-wagon shall leave such wagon unattended while inflammable liquid is being discharged from it into a storage-tank.

21. No operator or attendant shall deliver, or cause to be delivered, inflammable liquid to any motor-vehicle or motor-boat while the engine of the motor-vehicle or motor-boat is running, or to any motor-boat while there is any fire burning or there are any live coals in any stove in the motor-boat, except in the case of a motor-boat as to which a certificate of the Fire Marshal is produced stating that all tanks therein into which the inflammable liquid is to be delivered are equipped with a ventilating system approved by him.

22. All pumps and measuring-devices used in connection with a boat-filling station shall be of a type approved by the Fire Marshal. Plans showing the location of the storage-tanks, and the layout of all pipe-lines and valves used in connection therewith, shall be furnished to an officer and his approval obtained before the installation thereof in any boat-filling station is commenced.

23. Storage-tanks for boat-filling stations may be of the above-ground type. When storage-tanks of the above-ground type are used they shall be constructed and installed in accordance with the following requirements:—

All tanks, including tops, shall be constructed throughout of open-hearth steel or wrought iron of a thickness in accordance with the following:—

(a.) Horizontal or Vertical Tanks not over 1,100 Gallons Capacity.

Capacity (Gallons). Minimum Thickness of Material.

1 to 60.....18-gauge British Standard.

61 to 350.....16-gauge (B.G. 1914).

351 to 560.....14-gauge (B.G. 1914).

561 to 1,100.....12-gauge (B.G. 1914).

(b.) Horizontal Tanks over 1,100 Gallons Capacity.—Tanks having a diameter of not over 6 feet shall be made of at least 3/16-inch steel. Tanks having a diameter of over 6 feet and less than 11½ feet shall be made of at least ¼-inch steel.

(c.) Vertical Tanks over 1,100 Gallons capacity.—Tanks of this class shall be of such material and so constructed as to have a factor of safety of at least 2.5. The minimum thickness of shell for bottom shall be 3/16 inch. The minimum thickness of roof shall be ⅛ inch. The thickness of plates shall be in accordance with the following formula:—

$$t = \frac{2.604 \times H \times D \times F \times S}{T \times E}$$ t = thickness of plate in inches.

H = height of tank in feet above the bottom of the ring under consideration.

D = diameter of the tank in feet.

F = factor of safety (taken as 2.5).

S = specific gravity of liquid stored (water = 1).

T = tensile strength of plate in pounds per square inch.

E = efficiency of vertical joint in ring under consideration.

The tensile strength of the steel shall be taken as 55,000 pounds per square inch, and the shearing strength of rivets shall be taken as 40,000 pounds per square inch.

24. All iron or steel storage-tanks shall be thoroughly coated on the outside with tar, asphaltum, or other suitable rust-resisting materials.

25. Roofs or tops of storage-tanks shall have no unprotected openings. Roofs or tops shall be firmly and permanently joined to the tank and all joints shall be riveted and caulked, brazed, welded, or made tight by other process satisfactory to an officer.

26. All storage-tanks shall be riveted, welded, or brazed, and shall be soldered, caulked, or otherwise made tight in a mechanical and workmanlike manner, and, if to be used with a pressure-discharge system, shall safely sustain a hydrostatic test at least double the pressure to which the tank may be subjected. The top of every tank shall be securely fastened to the top ring, with joints of equal tightness to those between rings. Tanks shall be constructed entirely of metal, including top, sides, and bottom. All openings shall be gas-tight, except breather-vent, which shall be screened. All pipe connections shall be made through flanges or metal reinforcements securely riveted, welded, or bolted to the tank and shall be made thoroughly tight.

27. All storage-tanks shall be electrically grounded by resting directly on moist earth or otherwise electrically grounded to permanent moisture to the satisfaction of an officer. No insulated connections shall be permitted. Telephone-poles or other projections liable to act as lightning-discharge points shall be kept as far as practicable from tanks.

28. All storage-tanks above the ground shall have their foundation and supports of non-combustible materials. No combustible material shall be permitted under or within ten feet of any above-ground outside storage-tank.

29. All storage-tanks, wherever located or used, containing crude oil or other liquids which have a tendency to boil over, and all storage-tanks exceeding fifty thousand gallons capacity used for the purpose of any refining or wholesale storage plant, shall be adequately and properly dyked with a dyke having a capacity of not less than one and one-quarter times that of the tank or tanks surrounded; the minimum height of earth dykes to be three feet and of masonry dykes thirty inches. Storage-tanks of less than fifty thousand gallons capacity shall, when deemed necessary by an officer, on account of proximity to streams, character of topography, or nearness to buildings of high value, be dyked or the entire storage premises provided with a curb or retaining-wall or other suitable means taken to prevent the discharge of liquids on to other property in case of a rupture in the tanks or piping: Provided that when the tanks are vertical and set on a solid foundation, and all exposed piping which will permit delivery from the tanks is protected from mechanical injury, such dyke, retaining-wall, or other means of preventing discharge may be omitted. All dykes, curbs, or walls required by this regulation shall be of earth or masonry, so constructed as to afford adequate protection. When dykes surround tanks containing crude oil, they shall have, in addition to the above capacity, suitable coping or deflector projecting inward, properly constructed to minimize the effect of a "boil-over" wave. Dykes surrounding crude-oil tanks shall be not less than fifty feet from the shell of the tank or tanks surrounded. The capacity of dykes required by this section shall be properly maintained. Earthen dykes shall preferably have a flat section at the top of not less than three feet and shall have a slope consistent with the angle of repose of the materials of which they are constructed.
